Language, literacy, and learning in Primary Schools: Guidelines for teaching and learning. This book is a synthesis of the findings arising from four years of policy research and development in Nigeria's primary schools, and provides teachers, policy makers, and learning in classrooms. It begins by critically examining the outcomes of primary schooling as measured by achievement in national examinations. It then goes on to describe the range of studies on the learning of primary school children. It reviews the findings from recent research reports that studied teaching and learning processes in primary schools, and presents a large amount of data collected in Nigeria over the last five years. The book aims to help teachers identify and solve problems of learning in core learning skill areas of the curriculum. This study identifies priority areas for teachers' professional development, including the initial preparation of teachers and their induction into teaching.
