impulse control by giving them weird names (because evidence shows kids with unique names learn not to react when their peers tease them) to getting a vasectomy (because fewer kids in a family mean smarter kids). Conley encourages parents to draw on the latest data to rear children, if only because that

V. I. Warshawski series, a hard-boiled detective fiction set against the backdrop of the Chicago's Great Lakes waterfront. The series follows the adventures of V. I. Warshawski, a private-eye cousin questions the accidental death report and rumors of suicide. Armed with a bottle of Black Label and a Smith & Weson, V. I. follows a trail of violence and corruption to the center of the Windy City's powerful shipping industry. Dodging elaborate attempts on her life with characteristic grit and humor, the one-a-kind detective wends her way through a maze of grain elevators and thousand-ton freighters, ruthless businessmen and gorgous ballerinas, to ferret out Boom Boom's killers before they phase her out of the picture—permanently. Praise for Deadlock "V. I. Warshawski is one of the best . . . smart, tough, sexy . . . "—Daily News (New York) "Sara Paretsky makes excellent use of local backgrounds in a carefully plotted tale of murder and great misdeeds in the world of Great Lakes cargo shipping."—Chicago Tribune "Hard-boiled detective fiction . . . a swift-paced and engrossing read." — The Philadelphia Inquirer "Stitches with suspense!" — Chicago Sun-Times
