The Ten Types of Innovation Gow, Chong 2013 "... I hope that this treatise will contribute to the development of evidentiary law by addressing underlying conceptual issues and examining the basic precepts and organizing principles of that discipline. By considering these issues, I hope that I can shed some light on the development of evidentiary law and on the current state of the law as it applies to evidence generally. The treatise is divided into five Civil and Criminal Cases'; Part IV, 'The Rules of Evidence in International and Administrative Proceedings'; and Part V, 'The Future of Evidence Law'. In each part, I have endeavored to present the issues in question in a logical, systematic, and well-organized fashion. In addition, I have also endeavored to provide a comprehensive bibliography of the materials available on the subject."
