Curriculum 21: Heidi Hayes Jacobs 2010-01-05 "What year are you preparing your students for? 1973? 1995? Can you honestly say that your school's curriculum and the program you use are preparing your students for 2015 or 2020? Are you even preparing them for today?" With a new foreword by those provocateurs of the 1990s, Marc left to enter an education for the 21st century into the K-12 curriculum. Sharing her expertise as a world-renowned curriculum designer and calling upon the collective wisdom of 10 education thought leaders, Jacobs provides insight and inspiration in the following key areas: * Content and assessment—How to identify what students need to know; * Process and instruction—How to improve our use of time and space and groupings of students and staff; * Technology—How it’s transforming teaching, and how to take advantage of students’ natural facility with technology. * Media literacy—The essential issues to address, and the best resources for helping students learn to distinguish between the sensationalism of fake news and gain a global perspective. * Sustainability—How to instill enduring values and beliefs that will lead to healthier local, national, and global communities. * Habits of mind—The thinking habits that students, teachers, and administrators need to develop and practice to succeed in school, work, and life. The answers to these questions are found in this thought-provoking, action-oriented book, Curriculum 21, which presents 12 learning organizations that match the times in which we live.
