Margaret George 2006-08-30 Acclaimed author Margaret George tells the story of the legendary Greek woman whose face "launched a thousand ships" in this New York Times bestseller. The Trojan War, fought nearly twelve hundred years before the birth of Christ, and recounted in Homer's Iliad, contains many stories about beautiful, passionate, and courageous women. But Helen of Troy is perhaps the most intriguing of all. When Helen, in a page-turning page-turner with a cast of irresistible, legendary characters—Odysseus, Hector, Achilles, Menelaus, Paris, and Agamemnon—the story is complete. This New York Times bestseller is the result of a competition, The Promise, that the Times Literary Supplement ran in 2006. The purpose of the contest was to encourage aspiring writers to contribute stories about themselves and Shreyasi from his dreams, which he then turns into a hugely popular blog. When

Gendered Citizenship
Natalia Behl 2019-07-03 It has been shown time and again that even though all citizens may be accorded equal standing in the constitution of a liberal democracy, such a legal provision hardly guarantees state protections against discrimination and political exclusion. More specifically, why do we find pervasive gender-based discrimination, exclusion, and violence in India when the Indian Constitution enshrines as inclusive democratic commitments to gender and equal citizenship? In Gendered Citizenship, Natalia Behl offers an examination of Indian citizenship that weaves together an analysis of sexual violence law with an in-depth ethnography of the Sikh community to explore the contradictory nature of Indian democracy—what wrongly affects its institutions and puts its citizens at risk. Through a situated analysis of citizenship, Behl upends longstanding academic assumptions about democracy, citizenship, religion, and gender. This analysis reveals that religious spaces and practices can be sites for renegotiating democratic participation, but also uncovers how some women engage in religious community in unexpected ways to link gender equality and religious freedom as shared goals. Gendered Citizenship is a groundbreaking inquiry that explains why the promise of democratic equality remains unrealized, and identifies potential spaces and practices that can create more egalitarian relations.

Letters to My Ex
Nikita Singh 2018-02-14 ‘It feels like I’m on autopilot; I have no control over anything. The pain of losing you is so crippling that I can barely hold pieces of myself together. The slightest nudge could break me. But somehow, my possessed brain knows what I need. It’s telling me to stick to my choice, to stay away from you. So I open a Word document and bleed on paper, try to throw up all my jumbled thoughts in form of words, collect all disconnected facts, try to make sense of it all.’ From the bestselling author of Love Song and Every Time It Rains, a story of heartbreak and things left unsaid.
