The Meaning of Marriage Payments John L. Comaroff 1988

Media World Order Since 2002: This ground-breaking volume showcases the exciting work emerging from the ethnography of media, a burgeoning new area in anthropology that expands both social theory and ethnographic fieldwork to examine the media—film, television, video—as used in societies around the globe, often in places that have been off the map of conventional media studies. The contributors, key figures in this new field, cover topics ranging from the dynamic interplay between politics and power to the effective use of the Internet in the classroom to the use of film by the Taliban as they travel transnationally. Their essays, mostly new work produced for this volume, bring provocative new theoretical perspectives grounded in cross-cultural ethnographic realities to the study of media.

What’s Love Got To Do With It? by John L. Comaroff

The Poetry of Resistance in Contemporary Bedouin Society Clive Holes 2009: This book shows how colloquial Bedouin poetry remains a vibrant art that has manifold modern functions: commenting on world affairs (such as the Arab-Israeli wars, the Gulf War, The American invasion of Iraq); criticizing the domestic policies of Arab states; and highlighting poverty, discrimination, the corrupt practices of oficials, and a compliant local media. Each of the 41 poems presented is translated and translated into English verse, with historical and contextual annotation. The tone is sometimes bitter, sometimes satirical, sometimes scurrilous, and often amusing. The poems are profusely by an essay on the practice of modern Bedouin poetry. Poetry and Politics

Research on gender and sexual identity has become central to social science during that time, but studies have concentrated on other places and people, langu...age as a cultural resource and speaking as a cultural practice. The theories and methods of linguistic anthropology are introduced through a discussion of linguistic diversity, grammar in use, the role of speaking in social interaction, the organisation and meaning of conversational structures, and the use of various resources to manage speakers’ participation in interaction. Linguistic Anthropology will appeal to undergraduate and graduate students.
