The Everything Car Care Book Mike Florence 2002 From fixing a flat tire to changing the oil, a guide to home car care provides easy-to-follow instructions for monitoring brakes, checking fluids, adjusting headlights, troubleshooting engine problems, and more. Dodging the Toxic Bullet David R. Boyd 2010-03-01 Dodging the Toxic Bullet presents workable strategies that show how we can live longer, healthier lives by breathing clean air, eating healthy food, drinking safe water, and using non-toxic furniture, cleaning products, and household items. The book includes case studies of individuals and families coping with asbestos, lead, mercury, vinyl chloride, fish carcinogens in cleaning products, lead in toys, and lethal E. coli in ground beef. His clear directions for reducing risk include growing lots of houseplants, choosing whole foods, avoiding consumer products with strong or long-lasting smells, and creating an emergency homestead. Dodging the Toxic Bullet, 2nd provides the in-depth treatment required for technician-level students, but is presented in a way which will be accessible to car owners wanting more than just the bare essentials of the subject matter. Several examples of each topic application are included, describing the variations encountered in practice, making the book a useful reference for students of motor vehicle engineering.

Making Cars More Fuel Efficient European Commission of Ministers of Transport 2005 The European Commission of Ministers of Transport has released a report that analyzes the gap between fuel efficiency certification test results and the actual on-road fuel efficiency of automobiles. The report also examines technologies available that can improve fuel efficiency, and makes recommendations to the automotive industry. It is intended to provide basic information and most of the chapters include recent references to relevant research, test results, and technical solutions. In doing so it becomes quickly apparent that no suitable textbook exists in support of such coursework. My colleagues and I have undertaken the development of a series of graduate courses in engine design and mechanical development. The course material is based on our years of research in internal combustion engine diagnostics, making it a useful reference for both students and researchers whose work focuses on achieving higher fuel efficiency and lowering emissions.
